Healthcare Professional Services Firm Omega Technology Solutions, LLC Puts its Technology Offerings Out Front

Friday February 16, 8:15 am ET

Engagements in audits of Billing Procedures with analyzing Medical Records to actual Bills have uncovered and recovered over $120,000,000 in unbilled charges for Omega clients

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 16 /PRNewswire/ -- The Omega Consulting Group LLC, now a division of Omega Technology Solutions, LLC, has decided to focus its company on the sophisticated web-based technology it developed to provide efficiency in performing their Lost Charge Recovery Engagements. Offered as a Software as a Service, the specific applications and technology that have been born and commercialized are the ChargeMaster Maintenance System and the Omega Clams Examiner and editing Systems.

"The corporate restructuring to Omega Technology Solutions, along with an enhanced web site and new collateral, help to reflect the sales and marketing focus of our firm in this technology area. In addition, we have listened to our clients who have asked to have many of these processes automated," says Ann Fierro - President and CEO.

To facilitate this effort, the company has recruited individuals that have the experience and acumen to execute this diversified and complementary strategy for the "new" Omega Technology Solutions to continue to be the leader in providing healthcare solutions and services.

"In addition, through our team of top technical application designers and developers we have a near- and medium-term pipeline of soon-to-be- commercialized applications. These solutions will complement our existing web- based software and professional services engagements to the healthcare market," Fierro comments.

The company will continue to provide and expand its efforts in the area of Revenue Recovery engagements, as this is an unparalleled service to the industry.
